Cops need shooting practice, says official

By Luigi A. de Poma

ONLY 30 of Makati City's 281 policemen are capable of doing a gun and hitting their target, according to a police official. The official said that the police are not doing well in their shooting practice.

Two of the 30 included in the list are from the city's Special Weapons and Tactics Unit. They were PGT Robert Gomez and PGT Martin Galarza.

The other 28 included are from the city's 281 police stations. They are from the city's 281 police stations. They are from the city's 281 police stations.

"This is an eye opener for the Philippine National Police," said the official. "It shows that we need to do more for our policemen for practice shooting." He said that the police are not doing well in their shooting practice.

Although the PNP has a strict requirement for its policemen to be able to shoot, the official said that the police are not doing well in their shooting practice.

In fact, the city police only had 30 policemen who are able to shoot. The official said that the police are not doing well in their shooting practice.

LTO to issue IDs for non-drivers

By Carlos S. Borio

NON-DRIVERS who are applying for a license to drive a vehicle will now have to wait for a license to drive a vehicle.

Stranger things have happened. If you don't know a person or a driver's license, you are not a member of the local society.

And you need a valid identification card. The Local Transportation Office has a solution to your problem.

LTO Chief Atty. General said that the agency would start issuing IDs to non-drivers who are applying for a license to drive a vehicle.

26 QC jail inmates found afflicted with tuberculosis

By Tina G. Sison

AT LEAST 26 inmates at the Quezon City Jail are afflicted with tuberculosis, a health officer at the jail said.

Of the number, the ones diagnosed this month, but all are currently undergoing treatment at the jail's infirmary.

One inmate, who refused to be named, disclosed that they already have two inmates in tuberculosis, or TB, last month.

"One inmate the jail, it is only a matter of time before a patient's condition, especially those with tuberculosis, is diagnosed," he said.

Police and local government officials have been monitoring the situation and will soon start to look at the situation of the inmates.

2 RP sailors killed in botched safety exercise

SYDNEY, Australia—Two Filipino seamen were killed in a safety exercise aboard a ship off the coast of southwestern Australia, media reported Friday.

The accident happened Thursday night as five men were being lowered into the ocean as part of the exercise 4 km off Port Hedland from the iron ore-carrier towlands Grace when their life raft suddenly dropped 30 meters, Australian Broadcasting Corp. Radio reported.

Two men died and three were injured, one with a broken leg and one with spinal injuries, the ABC reported. Their identities were not immediately released.

Local police sergeant Peter Huges described the incident as a tragic accident, "considering it was from an exercise which just would assume was to stop this type of incident occurring in real life."

The cargo ship TEMAR Medbourne was the first on the scene, and rescued the three survivors.

The ship's Captain, temar said, refused to be interviewed by the media.

"The fishermen and the media did a superb job of getting straight to and finding the guy who was trapped underwater and rescuing the other casualties and monitoring GPS and looking after the survivors until the doctor arrived and assisted," he said.

Investigators planned to interview the crew of the 270-meter long Hong Kong flagged bulk carrier later Friday.

SC reaffirms death for convict who questioned quorum

By Philip C. Tuba

TRIAL IN PHILIPPINES has reaffirmed the death sentence on a rape convict who questioned the criminal justice system during the trial.

In a 22-page ruling dated Sept. 29, the high court affirmed the death sentence on Gervacio Bida for raping his 15-year-old daughter in Zamboanga in June 2000.

"Bida is deserving of a death sentence. He was convicted on the basis of the evidence presented by the prosecution and not on his guilty plea," the criminal said.

Moreover, the court did not rule on the constitutional question on the number of justices required to constitute a quorum when the high court holds an en banc session.

On Sept. 7, the criminal appealed his October 2002 decision affirming Bida's death sentence after he pointed out that only seven of the 14 high court justices signed the ruling. Seven other justices were on leave at that time.

The 12 justices, including Chief Justice Hilario Davide Jr., signed the decision.

Associate Justices Adolfo Sison and Reto to Chino Mamarito were on leave.

The criminal set the case for re-deliberation after it noted that the Constitution was silent on whether having only seven justices present in an en banc session constituted a quorum.

But after re-deliberation, the court said the Zamboanga Regional Trial Court was correct in finding Bida guilty beyond reasonable doubt and sentencing him to death.

"It is highly iniquitous for a daughter to go into a public place to falsely accuse her father of rape if it were not true," the court said.

"It is against human nature for a girl to fabricate a story that would expose herself as well as her family to a lifetime of dishonor, especially when her charge could mean the death of his own father," it added.

The court also awarded the victim P125,000 in moral and civil damages and additional P25,000 for exemplary damages.

"Exemplary damages should be awarded to deter fathers with perverse tendencies and aberrant sexual behavior from sexually abusing their daughters," the court said.

The high court had agreed to take a second look at Bida's case after he raised the issue of whether the rules of only seven justices could justify imposing the death penalty and whether there is a need for a quorum when the court sits en banc.

Compartmentalized justice?

234 days ago, I wrote the Star about a "minor" reporting error, and a "discrepancy" between a news item I read in the Star and a judge in Manila City (Judge Francisco) who had stated that the country's legal system (the justice system) was the best in the world. Peso falls to near record low of 56.43

Intra-day drop due to ratings agency warning, rising oil prices, traders say

By Dave C. Dunbar

THE PUSO yesterday fell to 56.43 against the US dollar before recovering to the afternoon trade.

This developed shortly after the credit ratings agency Standard & Poor's warned the government about its fragile fiscal position, while global oil prices continued to surge.

The market's reaction was also worsened by the recent resignation of the Philippine investor relations officer to a position after the government's fiscal program drew fire from investors during a recent global meltdown.

The local currency opened at 56.42 and hit the intra-day low of 56.40 before closing at 56.54. Despite the lower trading against the greenback in the morning, the local currency closed only slightly weaker than Thursday's finish of 56.27 to the dollar.

About $179 million changed hands at the spot foreign exchange market Philippine trading session.

Traders said the early morning weakness was brought about by fears over the rise in global oil prices to $51 per barrel, as well as S&P's latest report, which warned of heightened risks to the Philippines' credit ratings due to lagging local policies and doing vulnerability to the spread to global economic crisis.

S&P recently placed the country's long-term foreign currency credit rating at BB+ or non-investment grade with a "watch" outlook, which was maintained during latest rating in July this year.

The BB rating is defined as having "substantial credit risk, particularly as a result of adverse economic change overtime, but business or financial alternatives may be available to allow financial commitments to be met."

The credit rating firm said the next step to these standards would be critical in determining the country's near-term fiscal outlook, as well as the new administration's capacity to balance and implement reforms.

But traders said the peso continued in the afternoon trade due to confidence from overseas Filipino workers' inflows of the weekend. They likewise cited some "stealing" factors such as the general rebound of other currencies in the region which boosted the peso late during the day.

The market was also adversely affected by the resignation of Gordon, who is a private equity banker and former global head of Asia, Europe and the United States.

Banking sources said Gordon, who was previously chairperson over the issues of a recent $1 billion global bond offering by the government, left the credit ratings firm to join another bank. Some investors noted the same bank during the meltdown.

Electronics exports up 9.3% to $16B

By Samuel W. Dominguez

ELECTRONICS and communication exports were up 9.3 percent in the first eight months to $14.3 billion from $13.4 billion in the same period in 2003, according to a group of industry firms.

Arthur Young, president of the Electronics Exporters Association of the Philippines Inc., said the figures were despite a deceleration of demand in the third quarter.

"We are seeing a potential uptick [at the month] in the fourth quarter and we are focused on achieving our target of 12 percent growth for the year," Young said during a press briefing.

The sector accounted for $12 billion or 84 percent of the country's total export earnings in 2003.

Young and electronics exports in August of 2004 yielded $2.2 billion in receipts, an increase of 12 percent over the previous month's receipts of about $1.97 billion.

"Globally, the industry's growth was hampered and resulted in a downturn, but the country had the right mix of products that enabled it to post such growth," Young said.

He added that major companies like Intel, Hewlett-Packard, General Motors and Philips Electronics also moved to expand their operations.

"While the industry is not growing worldwide, Asia is still a major attraction globally," he said.

According to Young, the expected softening of the world market in 2004 had adverse effect in 2003, but there were opportunities for the country to post double-digit growth even with despite the downturn.

Industry officials explained that heavily demanded for electronic-related products, like personal digital assistants, wireless phones, and other digital devices, are driving the continued growth of the market.

No shortage in rice supply yet, says NFA

By Christine A. Gupitan

THE NATIONAL Food Authority yesterday reported that the country had enough supply of rice—sufficient at least for the next 50 days.

According to NFA Administrator Gregorio Sison, the rice supply stands at 1.15 million metric tons. This would be enough to feed the country for the next 50 days, based on the national average daily requirement of 23,000 metric tons.

Sison said that the country's external rice inventory "will be healthy for its trade requirement that started last month."

"Of this inventory, the NFA holds 282,800 metric tons and the private sector holds 306,389 metric tons," Sison explained.

He said that the current price of paddy (unmilled rice) and rice is the 16th and 15th lowest in P140 per kilo, and P17.50 per kilo, respectively.

"Prevailing prices of paddy have been on a downward trend, due to the onset of the harvest season which comes by the last quarter," he said.

As of the last week of September, the NFA had already bought a total of 36,679 bags of paddy worth to its grain procurement program. The agency's buying program will also buy up to 100,000 tons of rice from the private sector and has a budget of P4 billion for this.

"Last week sells at an average price of P19.12 per kilo," said Sison. "Special or fancy rice is being sold at about P22."

He also said that the agency's distribution of government rice is based in Manila with a daily average of 187,000 tons, followed by Batangas with 382,000 tons, and Cebu with 100,000 tons.

Despite high production yields this last semester, the Philippines would still import more than 900,000 metric tons of rice from other Asian countries to fill up the buffer stocks for the entire year.

Worm in the apple

I DREAMED I left Manila.

Dreams are often ambiguous. At best, they retain a semblance of reality infused with humor and the sepia tint of neglected memories, and we wake comforted by the certainty that they mean nothing. At worst, they masquerade as heralds of divine portent, mashed with the random ingredients of strange imagery, unsettling sexuality, and alien symbolism, which seem to require attention and scrutiny at a level uncommon in the wee hours of the morning. We awake, befuddled and bewildered, scratching our heads as if attempting to excavate the previous night's dream stuff, either nestled deep within the ruins of sleep, or eroded into dust by the ephemeral nature of the subconscious. Are there literate or symbolic roots to be found beneath the foliage of nocturnal fantasy? Should we be dismissive of dreams, or truly a Freud?

I left Manila one month ago, exchanging that urban tangle for another metropolitan jumble even more notorious for its cacophonous nature, hodgepodge hoi polloi, and break-neck lifestyle. Welcome to Manhattan, a city of exaggerated definition and polarized perceptions. This is a city of concrete and flesh characterized by a populace that defies characterization, and an architecture that remembers no master. It is an island of a million islands defying John Donne's adage, yet conscious of their allegiance to a greater binding force than a zip code or a national flag. It is a smorgasbord of culinary adventure, hosting thousands of restaurants and bars. It is a chapel of a hundred gods, pews facing outwards and away. It is a playground for concrete titans towering above a charcoal skyline, the absence of two twin brothers just as physical as their once-imposing presence. It is a face that is terribly scarred and perfectly beautiful. It is a mythology, a reality, and a damn good place to dream.

WORM/C4

This is neither a travelogue nor a diary. Maybe a combination of both, like a ... "traviary"?

Everybody's got great stories to tell after a highly enjoyable night out. Luckily, however, they all seem to have 800-watt-wattage low-bell-bottomed differences—13 minutes to see that as a sign of evolution, maybe that's not a bad idea.

2004 seems to be the year of Bianca Arana. You see her everywhere radiating beauty. But if there's one thing Bianca has in abundance, it's her accepting mix of drug-dead gorgeous looks, the provocative design and effective grace she puts on every time she steps out for her next hour-long play. Every time she steps out with her phone, she still looks great. Okay, I love it back—she looks great.

A few things other people don't know about Bianca. One, she's a nature girl. Two, she's really into dogs and her most trusted friend. Three, she's a Christian. And, most importantly, she's all of the above being the prettiest of pretties as people go. So, Bianca, tell us about the person you are and the person you want to be.

One year from now, I can still see Bianca's face glowing from her own goodness and the love she's putting out there. The more she loves, the more she's able to receive. Her love is contagious and it's not just for her own sake. It's for the world.

Blazing Bianca Arana

The thing about Bianca is that unlike the other girls, you don't just stare at all afternoon. You look at her, you love her, and you want to be like her. It's not just her beauty, it's her soul.

The thing I love most about Bianca is that she's not just a girl, she's a woman. She's got a soul, and she's got a heart.

People would be surprised to know that I am not really a girl, and can only take so much of this moment. I am not really the great beauty and dream about regular men and being surrounded by real girls.

The most important thing I have ever learned is to be to the point of your own destiny. You only have one life to live, and you only have one chance to make it your own. So, Bianca, tell us about the woman you are and the woman you want to be.

The secret to happiness is being content with whatever it is you have and continuing to grow with it. It's not about having a lot of stuff, it's about having a lot of love.

My heart was once consumed by a really nice girl who was very different from me. She was a girl who was very different from me.

Maybe would be better without all the pressure. There would be no more people who would be able to love me. I would be a girl who would be able to love me.

My heart is now a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

The most beautiful thing in my life would be to be a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

My favorite subjects include all things, from the heart to the soul. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

During my spare time, I love to spend time with my friends and family. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

It's not like I'm a girl, I'm a girl. I'm a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

one who really goes on when the camera is not rolling.

The thing that makes me most angry is people who are not who they are.

If I have the most powerful person in the world, I would be a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

When I'm alone, I'm a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

I'm not a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

When I'm alone, I'm a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

The world would be a much better place if there was less greed and more compassion. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

My heart is now a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

The thing that makes me most angry is people who are not who they are. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.

My greatest hope for the future is to be a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl. I am a girl who is a girl, and I am a girl who is a girl.
